QUALIFY FOR JUNIOR FINALS—Competing in the Royal Canadian Henley at Port Dalhousie, Ont., the eight of Toronto Argon defeated Ottawa and Detroit to qualify for the junior finals in the Canadian championship rowing races.

EXPANDS EL AREA INTO LEE-AGRE FARM—Owner of 1,000 acres at Cedar Springs, Ont., Virgil MacOlsen is one of two farmers who are directors of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. With him is his son, David. They have been but one of many crops in his "hobby" method of farming. The MacOlsen shows two car-piers of just boats she has just brought in for checking.

PAYING LAST TRIBUTE TO SLAIN STOREKEEPER—Widow and five daughters of William Douglas Cowan, Malvern, Ont., slain in his store, leave after the funeral service held at the home of their mother, Mrs. Cowan. Hundreds of neighbors gathered to pay tribute to the late Mr. Cowan, former councillor and school trustee, who was fatally wounded in a fight with a burglar in his store.

SHEEPSKIN FOR KINDERGARTEN GRADES—It's a big day in their little lives as Kathleen Ann Lally, five, receives her sheepskin from Mrs. Mary Thomas M. O'Connor, pastor of St. Catherine of Siena church as other kindergarten "graduates" await their turn in the Pate auditorium in New York.

"MISS OXFORD COUNTY"—Honey Fletcher, 17, of Ingersoll, Ont., was chosen "Miss Oxford County" for 1947 at the annual Thompson's Y.M. club's garden party which drew a crowd of 1,000 persons. The high school student expects to compete in Windsor for the Miss Western Ontario title.

CENTRE OF CONTROVERSY—Evelyn May Dawson, Collingwood, Ont., a graduate nurse 44 years, went about her rounds as public health nurse, despite a controversy over whether she should be kept on. "With the experience I have, I think I can keep up to anyone else in nursing," Miss Dawson said, commenting on a letter from Dr. P. A. North, director of the new Huron county health unit. Dr. North told Collingwood council she could not be taken on the unit's staff "because I believe she is without proper qualifications." Miss Dawson and she was the first graduate of Collingwood hospital in 1900.

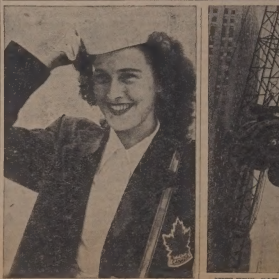

FRANKS KILLER OF LARABEE—The name "James Larabee," infamous sardonic runner from Hamilton, Ont., also known as Larabee, still strikes fear into the heart and eyes of an extensive, 10-year-old Ontario. Larabee, known as "The Old Man," was a 40-year-old, brown-haired, bearded, Windsor, Ont., girl who met James Larabee four months before police bullets ended him in death in a Cincinnati apartment house over a month ago. Larabee was reported to Canada. He is expected to ask Canadian police protection.

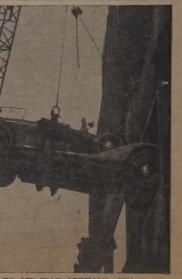

LATEST 'NEW LOOK'—Newest thing in lady's "new look" is apt shoes. The one shown is of black patent leather with high grey metal cap bottomed with all pearl buttons. It made its appearance in New York.

ALWAYS ROOM FOR ONE MORE—Running a tourist camp all by himself near Lake Couchiching, Ont., is a big job for Frank Cox, 28, veteran who put his grannies into the enterprise, but he criticizes reports of "crowded" resorts for hurting his business. "Tearing, washing and bed making are all in the day's work for Frank." He built cabins, too, and then limped the a an around them.

ONE OLYMPIC SWEETHEART—Donna Gilmore may not be the fastest girl in the 100 or 200 metres at the Olympics, but well-wager she is the "quintessential" one. This Vancouver miss has been the target for autograph hunters ever since the Canadians landed at Southampton and has been prominent among those mentioned to be open of the games.

HILLER'S CAR TO AID WAR ORPHANS—Hiller's second Mercedes-Benz automobile, now owned by Christopher Janus of Chicago, Ill., is shown being loaded into New York's R.C.A. building in Radio City. The auto will be placed on exhibition at Radio City's Museum of Science and Industry. Proceeds of the exhibition will be used to aid and educate war orphans at Athens College, a U.S. college in Greece devastated by Hitler's Nazi forces.

TYRONE AND LINDA VISIT MADRID—Tyronne Power and Linda Christian, en route to Italy to make a motion picture, took some time off in Spain and visited the countryside before proceeding toward Rome. Note the snappy silhouette Tyrone is wearing.

ESCAPE FROM JAIL ENDS IN SLAYING—Olympe Leveau, Windsor, Ont., gunman, paid with his life for a gangland double cross. Sheriff Guy Knibb, of Panora, Minn., revealed in a telephone interview. The career of the fugitive from Kingston penitentiary came to an end in a prison near St. Louis, 100 miles east of New Orleans, on the Gulf of Mexico coast. Knibb said the badly bruised body of Leveau bore signs of a magnificent fighting before bullets were fired through his head and heart. Although the body was found July 15, identification, through fingerprints, was not announced until July 28.
